

World cuisine will be on offer during the Streakham Food Festival

Eat food and help children

A SELECTION of Eritrean, Ethiopian and world cuisine, with both vegetarian and meat options, will be on offer during the Streakham Food Festival and the money raised from donations will go towards activities for children over the summer.

The Streakham Drop-In Centre, which has been open for 16 years, provides a range of practical needed services and activities for asylum seekers and refugees in the Streakham area.

Its services include drop-in sessions offering general, health and legal advice, English language classes and a homework club for children on Saturday mornings.

It took a group of young people to the Streakham Community Centre Garden to learn about nature and plant their own flowers on June 2. This will be the fourth year the centre has held the World Cuisine event in order to raise money for the charity.

Brian McCarthy, the centre's co-ordinator, said: "We're really excited to host this event again this year. Last year we hosted over 70 people, and the funds raised paid for a children's trip to the seaside."

The event starts at 7pm on June 22, at the Streakham Drop-in Centre, 2 Mitcham Lane (next door to English Martyrs Church).
